The Suffering of Palestinian Families under Occupation: Multidimensional Impacts on the Social Fabric and the Urgent Need for Protection, Scalable Solutions, and Justice

More than five decades of systematic military occupation, forced displacement, and blockade have resulted in a humanitarian catastrophe that has deeply fractured the fabric of Palestinian society—most notably in Gaza, where 2.1 million people have been affected in unprecedented ways.

There is an urgent need to rebuild a rights-based social protection system that is shock-responsive, grounded in justice and equity, and designed for long-term sustainability.

Strategic Importance:

1

Positioning the Palestinian cause within the global social justice agenda

2

Promoting equitable access to services for vulnerable groups

3

Showcasing the National Social Registry as a scalable and replicable model

Objectives of the Side Event:

Unveiling the impacts: displacement, poverty, and psychological trauma

Launching a solidarity platform uniting governments and civil society

Calling for urgent protection in accordance with international law
